Extravaganza warms up frosty Friday

Elk Point's annual Christmas Extravaganza was the warm spot in a bone-chilling weekend, with enthusiastic crowds ignoring the weather to do some serious shopping, take a hayride, try out the downtown skating rink, or visit around the bonfire while Christmas music from the Radio LW van filled the air.

The hay rides were very popular with children and adults alike enjoying this special seasonal entertainment provided by local horsemen Roy and Randy Scott, Morris Irvine and Ralph Hallwachs, who welcomed load after load of people at the Hay Ride Stop signs around their lengthy route.

Santa Claus made his annual visit, and was immediately mobbed by eager children as he handed out candy canes and checked out who had been naughty or nice.

A horde of youngsters braved the cold to go skating on the volunteer-made rink, with lighting provided by Alberta Power and a shelter provided by UFA.

Elk Point Lions and Lioness

Clubs were on hand to put names on their community Christmas card and to serve up very welcome hot chocolate and hot dogs.

A bevy of brightly decorated Christmas stockings helped to brighten the scene, these being the entries in the Christmas Stocking Decorating Contest. A random draw was made from the names of the stocking artists, with prize packages going to Briana Veenstra (4 to 6 year division), Jennifer Uttley (7 to 9) and Nichole Benson (10 to 12).

Shoppers made a night of it, visiting the craft-laden Farmers Market as well as the downtown businesses. Each purchase at a participating store gave them an opportunity to enter the Extravaganza's draws for Elk Point Bucks, which resulted in an absolutely stuffed draw barrel by draw time at 11 p.m.

Susan MacKinnon was the big winner, and now has $300 Elk Point Bucks to spend at participating businesses. Out-of-town shoppers made their trip to Elk Point worthwhile, with Bernie Hurtubise of St.

Paul winning $200 Elk Point Bucks and Gwen Bristow of Heinsburg winning the $100 Elk Point Bucks. Many businesses held in-store draws as well.

Extended hours announced

Extended pre-Christmas shopping hours have been announced by a group of downtown businesses. They will remain open until 9:00 p.m. on the following evenings: Friday, December 9; Friday, December 16, and Wednesday through Friday, December 21, 22 and 23 for last minute shopping convenience.

Proposed landfill site faces opposition

By Bruce Campbell

St. Paul Journal

St. Paul County Council is facing opposition to a proposed dry landfill site near Armistice Lake.

Steve Montgomery, who lives near the proposed landfill site, has begun a letter writing campaign to block the proposal.

"Every one along the (Armistice) valley is against it and they are all writing letters," Montgomery said.

The proposed site, located on Orest Boyko's land at NE-6-57-7 W4, would be used for dry refuse, such as wood, cement, concrete and others only. The landfill site is being considered because there is a concern that the current landfill site will fill too quickly if dry refuse is continued to be dumped there.

In his letter to council, Montgomery wrote he is concerned that the refuse would be dumped over a bank and there is no requirement to bury or cover the waste.

He also wrote of his concern about burning being permitted at the proposed site.

"I object to fires being allowed as the land is heavily forested and rough, making fire control all but impossible," Montgomery wrote.

"There are a number of homes that would be at risk in the event of a fire!"

Montgomery also expressed his concern over damage to the lake and wildlife due to runoff. The aesthetic value of the Armistice Valley would also be greatly decreased, according to Montgomery.

The application for the proposed landfill site was submitted by Elk Point town council on behalf of Boyko.

"We endorse it as long as it meets all the environmental standards," said Elk Point Mayor Ed Buck.

The proposed site has been given the approval of Carmen

Municipalities, industry, hospital discuss ambulance concerns

Representatives from the Counties of St. Paul, Two Hills and Vermilion River, Fishing Lake Metis Settlement, Amoco Canada Petroleum Co. Ltd., Norcen Energy Resources Ltd., Pan Canadian Petroleum Ltd., Windsor Salt Co. and Elk Point Municipal Hospital board and staff met with representatives of the Town of Elk Point on Friday to discuss Elk Point's ambulance service.

The meeting came to the mutual consensus that an ambulance service is an essential service.

A committee has been set up to look at the immediate needs and solutions to a long term ambulance service.

Further details will be supplied once the Committee has met and reviewed all the information received.

Families are about mutual appreciation

Expression of Appreciation:

A necessary ingredient in strong families is self-esteem. Do you help others feel good about themselves? Do you feel good about yourself? If so, you're setting the stage for good self-esteem. But feeling good about yourself and others is just the beginning. Feelings of appreciation need to be expressed in words and actions.

It's so easy to take each other for granted, especially in families. In the hurry of everyday responsibilities, and the pressures of getting things done, we often forget the importance of letting people know how much they are appreciated. A necessary ingredient is self-esteem.

A younger teenager sharing what she likes most about her parents said, "I like it when they do something just for me, like when Dad takes just me out for ice cream. It's not my birthday or a special occasion but a time when it's unexpected. It's really a surprise and makes me feel so special." The need to be appreciated is a basic need in each of us.

What is Self-Esteem? Self-esteem is feeling good about yourself and is one of the most valuable assets a person can have. If you really feel good about yourself, you value who you are as a person regardless of how successful or unsuccessful you are at a particular task.

You can pat yourself on the back when you accomplish something worthwhile and you can allow yourself to make mistakes. Try the following: 1. Allow yourself three mistakes and one major screw-up per day, guilt-free.

2. Let yourself do something "dumb" once a week - and laugh about it.

Building Your Own Self Esteem: People often reach adulthood and parenthood with a damaged sense of self-esteem. Experiences in childhood with parents, brothers and sisters, teachers, and peers may lead a person to be too harsh on him or herself. In addition, life circumstances beyond anyone's control can lead a person to have low self-esteem.

However, you can take some steps to raise a damaged sense of self-esteem. Being with others who see you as a valuable person can give you a real boost. You can learn also to give yourself the compliments you would like to hear from others. You can put the day's tasks on a list and enjoy checking off one after another. You can learn to feel good about small things. And most of all, you can learn to separate your own value from negative things in your work or family.

Things to do to build self-esteem:

1. Share problems with a friend or relative. Make a phone call or have a friend over. Say something like "I've been kind of worried lately and I thought it would help to talk. Do you have a few minutes?"

2. Think of an activity for you and your spouse or another adult that doesn't cost much money. Have friends over. Go for a walk or go jogging together.

3. Take time each week for yourself to do something fun, perhaps a hobby. Your whole family will benefit from a more relaxed you.

4. Make time several times a week for physical exercise to "work off your worries."

5. Find a friend to exchange babysitting with if you have young children. This can give you time for yourself or your marriage.

6. If your spiritual life has been a source of strength in the past, remind yourself to read, study, or pray or meditate to strengthen your spiritual self.

7. Learn to compliment yourself for small tasks accomplished. "What a nice looking stack of clean clothes." "The grain bins are all clean now and ready for harvest." "What a wonderful child I have." "How nice it is for the family to sit down together for a meal."

It's easy to come up with "yes-buts." "Yes, but I don't really have a close friend. And I don't have time to get together with other people. I could never share my troubles with another person," instead, try to see the positive possibilities.

Of course you have to create a plan that fits you and your family. If you don't have a close friend now, it may be that just finding a neighbor to share some problems with may help you turn an acquaintance into a good friend.

If you wait for success in the outside world to give you your self-esteem, you can be easily disappointed. Real self-esteem comes from inside and from friends who care. Nothing and no one can take it away.

Next week we'll look at building self-esteem in family members and expressing appreciation.

Response to "FCSS deficit"

To the Editor:

FCSS staff and board believe the community has been given an inaccurate view regarding the operations and management of FCSS. We would like to take this opportunity to express factual information about our service.

To begin, Mayor Buck stated that FCSS became autonomous this year and does their own budgeting, but found themselves short of funds to cover holiday pay that had been earned in 1993. FCSS is not autonomous and will never be fully autonomous because of the funding agreement between the province and the municipality. FCSS has worked toward establishing a 'management board' to be implemented in January 1995. Please note as well that the FCSS budget requires approval from Council and we report directly to Council, therefore budget shortfalls become a shared responsibility. The vacation payout by the Town was for 1994, not 1993, which was the direct reason for the $1160 shortfall.

Typically, the Town did all of the accounting for FCSS, however FCSS is developing a new accounting system which will be in effect January 1, 1995, providing provincial approval is received.

The mayor stated that FCSS would save money by focusing more on the community rather than going to such events as conferences. The total amount spent on conferences for both staff and board for 1994 was $1135, or 1.9% of the 1994 FCSS budget. FCSS believes that attendance at the annual provincial conference assists in learning new methods of helping achieve our goals to benefit the community.

The mayor also stated "They're going to have to change their direction. If FCSS is handled right it can be a definite benefit to the community." During the past year, Mayor Buck, councillors, and FCSS board and staff have worked together on "The Future Directions for Community Services." Considerable time and effort have been made to adapt to the changes and challenges. The program required a lot of restructuring after Council eliminated recreational funding in April 1994, because delivering programs and services under the recreational component was no longer possible.

FCSS believes in the value of the individual, the strength of the family and the concept of people working together to achieve a healthy, supportive community. Because of our commitment to the community, we felt it necessary to present the facts. The Town must be careful when they criticize FCSS because they are, in essence, criticizing themselves, because (due to provincial legislation and regulations) they are a part of the FCSS decision making process. Past and current actions by FCSS require Council involvement and approval.

FCSS Staff and Board.

A letter from Down Under

Irene Magnusson

Contributor

This is a letter I found in an old magazine, and since it was dated February 19, 1967, it should not upset anyone that I offer it to the public. There are several interesting subjects touched on.

Australia has long been - and still is - a place I'd love to visit... and probably never will.

Many years ago, one of our British ancestors sailed off to the Land Down Under, and story told that he settled in Tasmania. We have never heard how this branch of our family tree flourished, but imagination tells us they did well, and were fruitful. Was this lady "Rita" a long-lost relative that Mother Kate found a trace of? Or just a pen-pal name from some magazin, or such? I know the correspondence went along for some time.

Rita St. Ledger,

Red Hill, Brisbane,
Queensland, Australia
February 19, 1967

Dear Kate,

Thank you for your long and interesting letter. Sorry I've been so slow in replying. I've been madly busy getting the kids back to school after the holidays.

Thanks for the photos. I love those trees! They look so Christmassy with snow weighing down the branches. Your granddaughter is a pretty child!

You speak of gardening; I am another gardening crank and spend every possible moment in the garden. In this climate we have lots of flowering trees and shrubs, and I have planned my garden around lots of varieties of these. I have hanging fern baskets on some trees, orchids and elk and staghorn on others.

Under the trees are planted all sorts of ferns and in the really shaded areas, hothouse plants (fibrous begonias, maidenhairs, etc.) Over the fences I have climbing plants: stephanotis, jasmine, magnolia, antiguaria, climbing roses, etc.

I'm expecting a lot of these new varieties to flower next summer.

Fruit trees up the back are lemon, orange, loquat, pawpaw, mulberry. New ones are avocado, pear, fig, mango - and my great hopes for next summer are a number of grape vines.

Some of the shrubs or small flowering trees are - native cassia (a mass of yellow flowers), poinsettia (large red - USA's Christmas emblem flower), cotoneaster (red berries), alama (yellow), francisia (lavender and white) large trees - two more years before these flower. Others are jacaranda (gorgeous lilac flowers!) and Indian laburnum (called golden shower tree).

Flowers which I'm hoping will bloom this summer include marigolds, snapdragons, portulaca, asters, chrysanthemums. Also some roses in the front yard. I love pot plants too - don't you, Kate? Plants grow so quickly here, in summer, but so do the weeds! So the garden requires lots of work; too often I have to neglect it.

We have lots of destructive insects, too! Grasshoppers, toads, ugh! They don't hurt the garden but they sure give me a fright! They are exactly the color of a dead leaf, look like a giant bumpy bloated frog. Although our house is only three miles from the city, we also have snakes in our yard. These are said to be non-poisonous - but as Queensland has deadly snakes, too - I don't take risks, and kill them to be sure.

You asked me to tell you about Tasmania - Well, Kate, it's a beautiful lush green island, on the southern tip of Australia. With a cold winter. Lots of English people migrate there because of the cooler climate. It is called the Apple Isle because of its delicious apples.

Tasmania is a state of Australia; its capital is Hobart. Well, Kate, I could talk on

The Family Forum

By Jim MacLellan

An estimated 864,000 children are involved in some form or another of no-parental child care in Canada. Donna S. Lero and Karen Johnson, authors of 110 Canadian Statistics on World and Family: Background Paper, state that even up to 42% of stay-at-home moms use up to one hour a week of daycare. Over two thirds of parents working full time who would have normally been the primary caregiver in the home said that they would prefer to work part time or not at all (Michael Valpy, The Globe and Mail, January 11, 1994).

Is daycare bad for your children? Reports are mixed. Jay Belsky, a development psychologist at the University of Pennsylvania, warns that any child in over 20 hours of daycare per week at age one is risking "disruption in the mother-child bond." Studies of other children show an expression, she reports, of "insecurity, temper tantrums, physical and verbal aggression and a lack of cooperation later in life."

Other studies seem contradictory to Belsky's. Some even suggest that the detachment enables the child toward greater maturity. Whether your child is enrolled in daycare is really your choice. I hope it is an informed choice. The key in my opinion is the quality of daycare you select, if you do so.

Brenda L. Sissons and Heather McDowall Black have written a book, Choosing with Care: The Canadian Parent's Practical Guide to Quality Child Care for Infants and Toddlers. In it they help you measure the quality of care to expect and what to look for. For instance, in the caregiver you should find a person who is:

a. Experienced, either as a mother or employee;

b. Trained;
c. Blessed with a good understanding about good nutrition, child development skills, hygiene, safety, first aid and childhood diseases'

d. Friendly, smiles, uses normal talk (not baby talk);

e. Organized, observant, patient and responsive to the child; and

f. Can intervene in conflicts calmly, does not shout, or become physically abusive.

In the facility or home, they suggest to look for good safety equipment, absence of dangerous objects and safety mechanisms in place (eg. electrical plug covers, etc.), low staff turnover, bright, colorful spaces, no smoking, healthy snacks and careful immunization of other children.

Whatever is your choice, be well-informed and confident. I think the best daycare is parental care. What do you think?

Craft, book sale a big success

By Denise Smereka

F. G. Miller High School

Special thanks to all those people who showed their support for the F. G. Miller Crusaders by attending our 3rd Annual Craft Sale and Scholastic Book Fair, held November 26 in the gymnasium.

The book fair, brought to us by Scholastic Books Inc., was run by the R. E. Beattie Library and the Wapiti yearbook staff. Total sales were $1285.92 and the proceeds were split between the library and the yearbook. The library now has $160 worth of new books and the cash proceeds of $219.42 will go toward publication of the 1994-95 yearbook.

Congratulations are extended to the winners of the six door prizes, which were books, of course! They were: Natalie Maas (Mama's Bed), Jason Hoyt (The Crow and the Fox and Other Animal Legends), Kevin Moneta (Little Wonder), Valerie Engstrom (Homicidal Psycho Jungle Cat), Peter Danyluk (Cross Sections of the Man-of-War), and Barb Croteau (Dear as Salt).

Thanks to Christa Hammond, Krista Seward, Leslie Hillebrand, Margaret McGregor, Jana Linke, Andrew McGregor, Derek Jamieson and Christina Sereda for manning the tables throughout the day. Unfortunately, we were not as busy as we hoped, but we made new friends and spent the day doing laps amongst the tables. Thanks to ODS Picture Framing, Crafts by Donna, the

New faces at F. G. Miller

By Kelly Oszust

F. G. Miller High School

This school year there have been many new faces seen at F. G. Miller. We have received five new teachers to take the place of the teachers who retired or moved last year.

One of the new teachers is Mrs. Laura Speight. Mrs. Speight teaches Accounting, Typing 10, English 13 and 33, Law, and Intervention and Innovation. This is Mrs. Speight's first year in teaching.

Next we have Miss Holly Ross. She teaches Social Studies 8, 9, 20 and 30, Language Arts 8 and Math 7. This is her first year in teaching as well.

Maureen Ference is another one of the new teachers. Mrs. Ference teaches Language Arts 7, Math 7, Art 7, 8 and 9, and lastly Social Studies 33. Mrs. Ference is a little more experienced than our other new teachers, she has been teaching for 3 years.

Mr. Bryce Lorensen is another new addition to our school. He teaches Math 8, 9, 10 and 20 as well as 2 periods of Health each week. This is his second year of teaching. His first year was spent teaching in Heinsburg.

Preparing for transition: school representatives plan new region

Principals and parent council representatives from the 15 schools which will make up St. Paul Education Regional Division #1 met with the 11-member transition team and central office staff last week to prepare for the amalgamation of their five school divisions into a cohesive unit, as of January 1, 1995.

The two-day cloistered retreat, held at St. Edouard Renewal Centre, was devoted to "looking at where we are, where we're going and how to get there," according to the new region's acting administrator, Ted Cabaj. "We have to come up with a strategy for the first year of operation...the ways and means for a successful mission."

Lawrence Tymko, Executive Director of Alberta School Boards Association was facilitator for the strategic planning session, and said the group was "trying to come up with a set of organizational beliefs and values, as well as a mission statement to unify their efforts. We want to identify the issues the regional division will have to face, and the strategies and action plan the new board will need." The regional division will hold its organizational meeting on January 3.

Cabaj showed participants the "seventeenth draft" of a flow chart for administration of the new division, and said the document was still open for change and feedback. The administrative team will be moving into the newly expanded St. Paul Education Centre the week of December 12. The team consists of 12.5 members, and will face "mountains and mountains of work" in the next year or year and a half, Cabaj said, and "we'll need all the manpower we can get."

The new region will serve approximately 4200 students from kindergarten to Grade 12.

Caswell of the Northeastern Alberta Health Unit.

St. Paul County Council has not given a development permit to the site.— and one may not be forthcoming, according to Dennis Bergheim, County landfill director.

"I don't think it is going to go ahead," Bergheim said. "Because we're getting quite a bit of opposition to it."

The developmental permit has been tabled to Council's January 10 meeting. The County will be discussing the matter at its joint meeting with the Town of Elk Point Dec. 14.

Bergheim added if a permit is not issued, the proposed landfill would not go ahead despite having the approval of the NEAHU.

Bergheim said the existing landfill site in Elk Point could be utilized for 10-plus years if the existing land available is used properly.

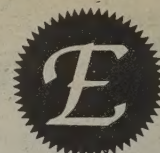

County councillor Ray Danyluk said he had some concerns about the site because it is a wilderness area and it may be difficult to get firefighting equipment to the site in the event of a fire.

The joint landfill agreement between Elk Point and the County expires in approximately a year.

1984 - 1994

E-Can Oilfield Services marks tenth anniversary

When Andrew Boddy emigrated to Canada in 1980 with a mechanical engineering background, he found a position at Husky Oil Operations in Project Engineering, Thermal Operations. This work helped him to see opportunities for different services that assist heavy oil production.

Andrew and a partner founded E-Can Oilfield Services in November of 1984 by acquiring the business assets (two pressure units and a water truck) of a local Elk Point company.

The name E-Can, derived from England and Canada, was a great partnership for the start of a new business in a growing industry.

The first shop opened in the old Zarowny Motors building (50th Street and 50th Avenue) with just four employees. In those days, Andrew was the welder, mechanic, driver and truck swamper.

In the summer of 1985, with the addition of a vacuum truck, two pressure units, a water truck and a new tank cleaning system, E-Can moved to larger premises on 47th Street in the Industrial Park.

The heavy oil industry always needs unique approaches in extracting and handling this natural resource. Andrew adapted services, in response to recommendations by his employees and customers. For example, E-Can uses the largest vane-type vacuum pump available in North America, for moving the sand so prominent in heavy oil.

E-Can continued to operate through the "oil depression" of 1986-87 and in 1988, added 6 pressure trucks, 7 vacuum trucks and a flush by unit. In the fall of 1989 they moved to a new facility on 46th Street.

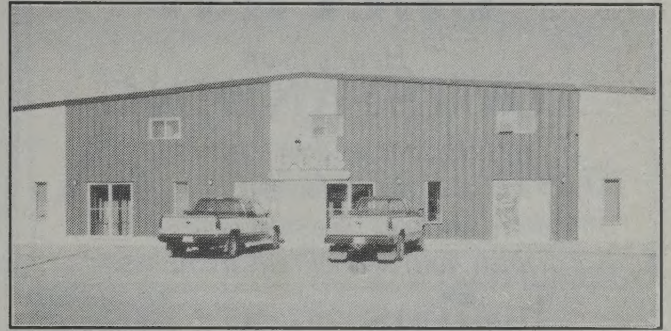

With E-Can's pride in service excellence always at the forefront of its operations, the company continued to expand services to meet the demands of the '90s.

Over a two year period, from 1992 to 1994, E-Can expanded their trucking and safety operations to Bonnyville, Alliance, Provost, and finally, Hardisty. Also, their Elk Point facilities were renovated and expanded in 1992 and 1993.

Throughout the past decade, E-Can Oilfield Services has gone through many changes: from 4 employees in 1984, they now employ 125 men and women in administration, operation, safety and maintenance; from consuming 9000 litres of fuel per month to 123,000 litres per month in 1994; from dealing with 25 suppliers at the start to 600 suppliers today; and from serving 6 local companies to offering services to 350 companies across central Alberta.

E-Can Oilfield Services started business with only three units and a lot of determination. The company now offers 40 units, countless equipment and that same determination to serve E-Can's motto of "Built on Safety and Performance."

E-CAN'S CURRENT HOME is a far cry from their humble beginnings in the old Zarowny Motors building on Main Street and 50th Avenue, which they shared with Lakeland Tire and Ultimate Auto Glass and Upholstery.

Be part of our Christmas!

The Elk Point Review is inviting you to be a part of our Christmas issue on December 20. The theme of this issue is "Christmas is for Families."

Would you like to provide the artwork for our front cover? We are looking for an original drawing, 10 1/4 wide by 11 inches high, suitable for reproduction in black, white and one color.

Or perhaps you would like to share a favorite Christmas memory, involving your family, or a poem, or an anecdote or short story pertaining to the theme. Maximum length for stories and articles is two double-spaced pages, please. Stories and poems will be used as space permits.

All those who submit items for the Christmas issue will have their name entered in a draw for a gift from the Review.

Get your stories, poems and artwork in soon - deadline is noon, December 15, but the sooner the better, to allow for typesetting. Bring entries in to the Review office, or mail to us at Box 309, Elk Point.

Please attach your name and phone number to all entries.

Saddle Slickers 4-H news

By Ashley Larson

Club Reporter

The Elk Point horse club had their first meeting on November 16 at 7:00 p.m. To welcome the 4-H members, Ruth Purdy read us a poem called "My Dad's Advice." Then we welcomed our new 4-H members Lindsey Hines and Misty Peterson. We might have a few more members joining us soon. After that we discussed our tentative schedule for 1994-95. We held our election for the officers, President - James Purdy, Secretary - Lindsey Hines, Treasurer -- Jamie Schnurer, Reporter - Ashley Larson and for Vice President it is Misty Peterson.

Our next meeting will be Dec. 3 at 2:00 p.m. It will be a Christmas Party. At that party we will also have a cookie drive, that's when all the members bring 3 dozen cookies. Then we will decorate them and give them to people for a Merry Christmas. We will also exchange presents with one another.

Our general leader is Daphne Schnurer. Our project leaders are Joyce Larson and Ruth Purdy. If anybody would like to join our club, please call our general leader at 724-4206 and ask for Daphne Schnurer.

A letter from Down Under

about the beauties of Tasmania, and its history, but this week our lovely apple isle is in everyone's hearts because of the tragedy that is happening there at the moment.

Bushfires started in the southern part of the state last weekend, and by Tuesday had razed suburbs and towns in a 95 mile radius of the city and almost to the city's heart. We got the news here on Tuesday; all of Australia is asked to help these people in their dreadful trouble; we will give what we can.

I suppose, Kate, you would know what a bush fire can do - I suppose in Canada you call them forest fires. They are a curse to this country because of our vast wooded plains and mainly dry conditions.

The latest figures on the Tasmanian fires are: 51 dead, 4000 homeless, 750 homes lost, and 12 towns wiped out. Unbelievable that such a tragedy could strike so quickly!

Part Two

You mentioned the war in Viet Nam, Kate. Yes, we also pray for peace, but while there is a war, Australia will support the USA. You see we are in a very vulnerable position, situated so close to south east Asia.

Already-over-populated China would welcome more land to feed her millions. Australia is vastly under-populated, and with our enormous coastline - so easy to invade. While the government is taxing us heavily for a big defence drive, our defences at the moment are inadequate.

Also, Australia has a very strong emotional tie with the United States, stemming from the days of World War 2, when they saved us from invasion by the Japanese. The Japanese had bombed Sydney Harbor and also Darwin, and sunk a hospital ship, just outside of Brisbane.

It was the Coral Sea battle when so many Australian and American lives were lost that turned the tide of war from Australia.

Now to something not so dismal: in reply to your question, yes, we do have decimal currency - we changed over one year ago, in February, 1966. It was confusing at first. We are still using two sets of currency, but the old notes are all recalled. One more year, and the changeover will be complete. Our notes are: $1 = 10 shillings (old); $2 = 1 pound (old); $10 = 5 pounds, $20 = 10 pounds. Our coins are 1 cent, 2 cent, 5 cent, 10 cent, 20 cent and 50 cent. You can imagine how difficult it was for us, at first.

And to make matters worse, lot of trades people put their prices up at the same time. However, mostly it went quite smoothly, and I agree it is a much more efficient means of reckoning. New Zealand and Great Britain are to change shortly, too.

I have given your address to my neighbor's widowed mother. She is in her sixties, has five children and fourteen grandchildren, but still gets lonely; so will enjoy your answers, if you care to write to her. She says she will be happy to write to you.

If you write again, please tell me about your flowers and trees. Your house looks lovely, under the trees, and I noticed particularly the old chair outside your house! I'm a lover of old furniture and would like to hear all about it. I hope you will send some more snapshots of your home and where you live. They help so much to put a place in my mind.

I too love the beach, its sounds and smells! We have lovely beaches here and especially lovely shells. Would you like me to send you some? First tell me what sort you get on your beaches, so I won't duplicate them. I sent two to David, one year. If you hold them to your ear, you can hear the sea.

How I'd love to have a play on your organ. Joe and I have a piano, and it gives us lots of pleasure. I sing all day and would be lost without music around me... so listen to the wireless a lot. We have TV, but the children are denying themselves TV for Lent. I must say it's a break to have a little quietness in the house.

Do you have any pets? I have a cat called Ringo. She's black and white, and very beautiful. I think every child in this street has some sort of pet. We have a guinea pig, too.

Did you have a nice Christmas, Kate? We had a fabulous time! With the usual family reunion. I'll be you are a good cook. How about sending me a recipe for your favorite cookies? I will send one of mine next time I write.

All good wishes, to you and yours,
Sincerely, Rita

Christmas program off to a good start

By Michele Ducek
Librarian

The Christmas program got off to a good start with the kids making ornaments representing 8 maids a-milking, 9 ladies dancing and 10 lords a-leaping. Everyone was excited about making ornaments for the tree, although some were reluctant to give them up when they were done. All extras went home with their makers.

Visitors to the library may notice the progressive bulletin board display. Every week a little bit more of the display is put up. The completed display will be revealed for the first time the morning of the Christmas party, December 16. Make plans to attend.

If you are planning a winter get-away in the new year, you might want to check out the new travel guides that have just arrived in the library. From the traditional hot spots such as Florida and the Bahamas, to the lesser traveled Australia and New Zealand. We also have a guide to hiking in Mexico for the intrepid traveler who craves the unusual.

Other new books include:

Teenage Health Care by Gail B. Slap and Martha M. Jablow is the first comprehensive family medical guide for the preteen to young adult years. The back cover touts this book as the "Dr. Spock for teenagers." It's about time a book covered the period between childhood and adulthood.

First there was Hollywood Wives. Then came Hollywood Husbands. Now Jackie Collins completes the circle with Hollywood Kids. This is the story of the children of Hollywood royalty, who always get everything they want until a serial killer starts hunting them down. This has all the earmarks of classic Jackie Collins—glamour, wealth, sex, etc.

Thunder rolls over St. Paul

Elk Point Thunder rolled over St. Paul Midget Bs 13 to 5 on Sunday, with Travis Pankiw leading the scoring with a hat trick and one assist. Danny Flett and Marcel Jenkins contributed a pair each, while single markers came from Kristin Holthe, Monty Kenyon, Richard Piotrowski, Jacques deMoissac, Irwin Easthope and Ricky Robinson. Assists were by Flett, Jenkins (2), Jeff Hughes, J. deMoissac (2), R. deMoissac (2), goalie George Favel, Holthe, Easthope (2), Robinson and Chris Berlinguette.

Sunday's game made up for Friday night, when Thunder met defeat at the hands of Kitscoty. Coach Doug Flett said the 9-8 contest was "a really good game," which Elk Point lost only in the closing minutes. The scoring team of Marcel Jenkins, assisted by Travis Pankiw and Danny Flett racked up four of Thunder's eight goals, with Monte Kenyon, assisted by Pankiw and Jenkins, Rene deMoissac, assisted by Pankiw, Kristin Holthe, assisted by Irwin Easthope and Ricky Robinson, and Danny Flett, assisted by Pankiw, providing the other four.

PAINT JOB - Terry Hebblethwaite provided a new look for the kids at the Mini-Carnival, and had a long lineup awaiting her services.

THREE LEGGED RACE, WINTER VERSION - was part of the fun at the A. G. Ross Arena on Sunday, where a mini-carnival included family skating, a bake and craft sale and lots of fun for all.

ICE-LESS FISHING - The Fish Pond was a popular spot with tiny tots at the Mini-Carnival.
